Put Your Trust in Synger Productions

Since 1999, Lauren Synger, owner and founder of Synger Productions, and professional voice-over artist has voiced hundreds of videogames & animations, commercials & promos, public service announcements & radio tags, audio books, and audio imaging services. Synger's services extend to numerous genres including industrial narration, instructional & educational voice over, and phone system voice over in English & Spanish (message on hold, auto attendant, voice mail, & IVR) for businesses world-wide. Synger Productions also provides scripting, editing, and production services for clients. In addition, Synger Productions has over four years of experience within the telecom industry. Synger Productions provides the technological know-how necessary to offer a professional, turn-key audio-imaging service for both owners and installers of phone systems. The extensive voice-over experience, coupled with the telecom experience enabled Synger Productions to expand into a full-service audio production studio, delighting customers with quality work and quick turn-around times regardless of client location.

What we Offer:

Messaging On Hold

Messaging on Hold entertains and educates a captive audience, already interested in your products and services. Our messages are enjoyable to listen to and informative. Each message is designed to reassure your customers of the positive experience they will have with your company, and will inform them of achievements, growth, and changes in the company and/or products. They will let your customers know they are still connected to you, keep your customers/potential clients focused on your company, and will stimulate them into asking your reps for more information regarding your company's products and services!

Auto Attendant Menus

Auto Attendant: the automated phone system audio navigation that directs callers to an employee extension or company department. Its an important part of creating a professional image for your company and a positive experience for your customer. We will dial into your system and record any menus, directories, or department messages in whatever audio format you need. By using the same voice for Messaging on Hold and Auto Attendant, you create a professional, stream-lined audio image for your company - a "voice" for your business!
